

Joseph's Job!

1865

Today Joseph Hooker - who is a ~~botanist~~ botanist - was appointed Assistant Director at the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew and he was following his father's footsteps.

Despite being a surgeon in his early career, Joseph has always had a passion for plants. Unfortunately after pioneering work he should not have been imprisoned by the Rajah in India but brought back 1000 species of plants including 25 new species of Rhododendron.

and now people can go to Kew gardens and meet Joseph himself and you should.
