

Joseph Hooker

A generous, dedicated botanist has really accepted the job as director at Kew Gardens. Joseph Dalton Hooker - who is taking on the role at Kew Botanical and is born - and - bred in Halesworth. - Joseph Hooker became generous; he made a lot of great discoveries such as: 25 new species of rhododendron and 7000 species of plants in India alone. While in India, Joseph Hooker was imprisoned by the Rajah but was later released.

~~Occasionally~~ Occasionally, Joseph Hooker would voyage to other countries such ^{as} as: Morocco, Japan and more.

Before he was a botanist, he was a surgeon in the navy. He later went on a 4 year expedition to the Antarctic (1839-1843). He also wrote a book with a man called George Bentham.
