

Joseph Hooker born-and-bred in Halesworth born 30th June 1817. In 1855, he became a botanist he discovered many types of plants such as: Rhododendron very colorful dayodils and many more. He got imprisoned; he trespassed in India.

His father was called William Jackson Hooker. His Son Joseph became director of Kew Gardens in 1865. Since he was 7, he wanted to go on lots of expeditions. The Rhododendron that had been discovered by Hooker - was received at Kew. He became famous; he made a lot of discoveries.

He influenced the science of plants; his father was the director for Kew when he became director. He discovered plants close-up he shall go on a lot of expeditions.